

Season's Greetings from the Aviation Graduate Council

Congratulations on completing another successful semester. We hope that all of your exams went well and wish you a wonderful break.

We would also like to congratulate our colleagues who successfully completed our program this semester:

Anthony Erstad, Jiefei Li, Paul Mulder, Chris Resotko, Peng Wang, Hunter Musselman, and Corey Brewer

Hangar Dance - January 24th 2014

Mark your calendars for January 24th. The AGC in collaboration with other student organizations will be hosting a hangar dance. Ticket sales will begin in January. The theme of the hangar dance is Casino

Stay tuned for more information in the coming weeks!

Operations Center Callout

Our colleagues at the operations center are looking for new students who are willing to participate in various research projects.

The Operations Center is a component of A3IR-CORE, a University-level Center of Research Excellence involving both internally- and externally-funded applied research. Responsibilities will include managing the Research Center's computer system, automating data inputs, troubleshooting various information systems, and more. This is a unique opportunity to jumpstart professional development, networking and resume building. If interested, please contact opscenter@purdue.edu.

Congratulations to our new president and vice-president!

Mallika Ayyangar is the new president of the Aviation Graduate Council. Lukas Rudari will act as vice-president. Jacqueline Cooney will continue to serve as Secretary and Deborah Bae will also continue her duties as Treasurer

We would like to thank Julius Keller, former president, and Adam Landers, former vice-president, for their work.

Other leadership positions are still available and will be filled at a callout in January.
