

Research Highlights

- Optimal traffic flow management is achieved by delay control
- Sector capacities are well respected
- Parallel computing platform accelerates the computation for traffic flow management
- Decomposition methods are promising for a real-time traffic flow management platform