Graduate students are often encouraged to publish their work, but the process can be daunting. In this workshop, we'll address common questions about the publication process and outline strategies for getting your work into print.

Chris Tardy graduated from Purdue in 2004 with a PhD in English as a Second Language. She is now an Assistant Professor in the Department of Writing, Rhetoric, and Discourse at DePaul University in Chicago. Her research interests include second language writing, genre and discourse studies, and institutional language policies and ideologies.
