Final Paper

Overview
It is now time to synthesize all of your semester work into a final paper. Do not try to include every piece of information, but only that which pertains to your main focus. Remember all of the work we have done throughout the semester. It is all applicable in this last project. Evaluating and analyzing literature, thinking critically, researching your topic, and incorporating secondary research correctly should all be demonstrated in this final paper.

Goals for the Assignment
- To synthesize your research into an organized and detailed paper.
- To selectively choose what research should and should not be included.
- To establish credibility by considering diverse sources and opinions.
- To write objectively but with an argument.
- To incorporate the perspective of your text and research sources.
- To appropriately document your sources (parenthetical references, block citation, bibliographic documentation).

Requirements
- 10-12 pages
- At least 5 sources from your Annotated Bibliography must be included.
- A central focus for your argument about your text.
- Analysis of the text.
- Creative title.
- A lead paragraph that catches and holds your audience’s attention.
- Paraphrases and quotes from your text and secondary sources.
- Logical organization and progression to your paper.
- Objective explanation of differing viewpoints.
- A conclusion that ties everything together.
