

Enjoy the Ride

Sheila D. Thayer

If you're reading the writing on this wall Then you are blessed, far above us all for most of us travel by car not really looking at where we are

We don't take the time to see The people around the court house seats

we don't notice the lovely places that have sprung up, right before our faces

Life might seem like it's unfair Cause you're in here, and we're out there

But just remember as you pass in this bus
That you're enjoying your ride far more than us
