

slide to the softer side

Jason Gant

crooked fingers and scarred hands my badges from a semi-hard life

I've seen some changes
no more hardness
society is embracing a softer touch

and men can cry now instead of being the stoic man forms we used to be

and raised by stoicism, I have to be gentler now with my daughter

I think it is for the best tho, every generation needs

to be able to say “it was different boy,
back in my day”
