Work in Progress

Under Review

Hogan, Richard. Resisting Redemption: Freedman, Planter, and Yeoman Partisanship in Reconstruction Georgia, 1868-1880 (penultimate draft submitted to Georgia University Press, January 2020; under contract).

Other Papers

Hogan, Richard, "Tilly's Social Movements and Gordon's KKK: Toward a Dialectic of Interest and Identity Politics." (submitted January 2018—rejected in May 2018: thinking about it)

Hogan, Richard "Race, Place and Repertoire Change in U. S. Lynching, 1830-1930." One of two or more papers comparing vigilantism and lynching across time and place (see 2018 and above).

Chris Malackany and Richard Hogan, "Local Matters" (submitted Spring 2016; rejected and awaiting action from Chris)

Gibson, Gregory, Richard Hogan, and Karen Foli, "Heroes and Heroines: A Gendered Perspective on Heroic Status Attribution" (November 2010; under revision—maybe: need to ask Greg (currently running a research lab at Kent State University); a version of this paper was presented at the NCSA in Cincinnati, OH, 2014).

Niskanen, Susan E. and Richard Hogan, "The Characteristics and Development of the Profession of Art Therapy." (December 2007, not currently being revised); Sue and I are talking, from time to time, about working up a paper from her recently defended dissertation on "What Happened to De-Institutionalization since 1980." She is currently teaching at IV Tech.

Hogan, Richard and Tyrell Connor, "Racial Inequality in Employment Earnings: What Has Changed Since 1976?" Paper that Tyrell and Sarah Mustillo and I worked on for SROP (when Tyrell was not yet a Boilermaker). This paper really needs a home and an adoptive family. Sarah left us and neither Tyrell nor I are really motivated to revise this paper. We probably need to download a new wave of these data. Where is Tyrell?

"Marx on the City: A Focused Archaeology of Knowledge," draft book prospectus submitted to Zane Miller, editor of the Urban History Series for Temple University Press (December 2009), in response to his suggestion. Zane has since died, and this is not likely to be a priority soon.

Hogan, Richard. "Teaching Global Warming." Maybe someday.
